

General Terms and Conditions of Business for Contributions Submitted by Authors

Hüthig GmbH uses and develops forms of publication for all modern communications techniques, such as e-papers. This belongs to the core editorial business of a trade publisher and is an essential means of securing the competitive position and hence the future of Hüthig GmbH– and therefore also of its authors.

We therefore wish to point out that on acceptance of an article or on payment of a fee the following comprehensive and exclusive rights of use not subject to limitations of geography, time, or content are granted to Hüthig: Print media rights <sup>1</sup>, editing, alteration, and translation rights <sup>2</sup>, rights of use for advertising purposes <sup>3</sup>, rights of electronic/digital use <sup>4</sup>, rights of database use <sup>5</sup>, as well as the right to transfer the above-mentioned rights of use to third parties <sup>6</sup>.

Explanation:

<sup>1</sup> Print media rights: Hüthig GmbH is permitted to use the work in whole or in part in material form at home and abroad in all print titles and print editions of Hüthig GmbH & Co. KG as well as for or in print media of all kinds. The rights of use in this context cover in particular the reproduction rights, distribution rights, rental rights, lending rights, and archiving rights.

<sup>2</sup> Editing rights: The work may be translated into other languages, edited (e.g. alteration of layout, final editing), and in particular may also be shortened.

<sup>3</sup> Rights of use for advertising: For (its own) advertising purposes, Hüthig GmbH is permitted to print the work, to broadcast it on radio and on television, to present it in on-line media, and to disseminate it in any other way.

<sup>4</sup> Rights of electronic/digital use: Hüthig GmbH is permitted to record the work in digitised or non-digitised form, to combine it with other works and contributions in databases, and to store it on all known storage media. Further, the work may be utilised electronically in any form whatsoever, including interactively (e.g. e-papers), reproduced on any data, graphics, or audio storage media, e.g. CD-ROM, CD, and DVD, and marketed or disseminated independently. In particular, use is permitted in online services (e.g. tele- and media services), internet, film, radio, video, entry in and retrieval from databases, telecommunications, cellular phone networks, broadband and data networks, as well as for electronic press reviews, regardless of which technique is used for transmission to mobile and stationary end devices.

<sup>5</sup> Database rights: The work may be digitised and, together with other material, stored on all known storage media, edited, supplied with retrieval software, and stored on any data storage media. These storage media may be reproduced in any form. Further, it is also allowed to transfer the work and rights to third parties by means of data transmission (by downloading) and to permit printing-out of paper copies by end users.

<sup>6</sup>

Rights of utilisation by third parties: Hüthig GmbH is granted the right to transfer the above-mentioned rights of use to a third party and to authorise the third party to transfer in turn these rights to other persons, where appropriate with the provision that rights of utilisation can again be granted to third parties, and so on. After publication of the article in the Hüthig journals, the author is likewise free to grant rights of utilisation by third parties.

Of course you retain your moral rights, in particular your right to forbid distortions, other impairment, or uses which may endanger your justified intellectual and personal interests in the work.