Profile in brief:

Lux Select continues to be a must-read for the lighting industry: We introduce new lighting products as well as the technological trends and the movers and shakers behind them. We explain what the new products can do and how they can be included in the planning of good lighting. All of this can be found in an annual guide that keeps readers up-to-date and allows them to always have access to relevant information.

In a clearly arranged trends section, we show what drives the lighting and building technology markets. We also present luminaires and lighting systems for current projects.

The second part of Lux Select showcases the lighting industry's most important providers. We report on traditional companies and start-ups, as well as developments and success stories. All of this to provide our readers with the background they need on who is currently lighting the way.

In the third part of Lux Select, we profile the movers and shakers behind lights and lighting trends: In interviews, they talk about their views on market developments and the future of light.
